Dear Christina,

I am writing to apply for an introductory role at Burton Industries.

I am writing to apply for the student linux support technician position listed on Handshake. I am interested in this position because I enjoy working with linux and am looking to gain more experience. My background in using linux is from personal use, I understand how to work on linux systems and have experience using Fedora, Ubuntu, and Arch distributions. I understand how to work well in a terminal and also have experience in scripting with Bash to automate tasks and create a better workflow. I would love the opportunity to work in this position and learn more about linux and how it works. I feel I would be a strong candidate for this position and would like the opportunity to speak with you. I would also be open to discuss any other opportunities you feel would be a good fit.

Sincerely,

Andrew Fila
